

RAPTURE BOY

For Those Who Can't – EP Release

For Those Who Can't is Rapture Boy's most vulnerable and dynamic release to date — a sonic evolution rich with fresh styles, new flows, and raw intention.

With the support of his band, The Pdlrs, each track is brought to life through lush live instrumentation, fusing blues, hip-hop, soul, and emotion into a seamless listening experience. Featuring a range of collaborators, the EP is textured with diverse voices that elevate its message. At its heart, this project is a heartfelt offering to those who feel lost, unheard, or burdened by the chaos of everyday life. It's a voice for the voiceless — a hand extended through sound.

"My new EP is a piece of work dedicated to those who need some help — however, more for those who have left us too soon. Therefore, I stay true to my goal: For Those Who Can't."

This is Rapture Boy

Rapture Boy is an emerging South African artist celebrated for blending various musical styles, including R&B, hip-hop, and a touch of electronic music. His sound features catchy melodies, introspective lyrics, and innovative production. With performances at prestigious events like the Montreux Jazz Festival and St. Gallen Open Air, he's making a name for himself on a prominent level. Rapture Boy uses music as a diary, creating a sense of connection that reassures listeners they are not alone. His work serves as inspiration for navigating life's challenges through a musical outlet. Drawing from hip-hop legends like Jay-Z and Nas, he also finds inspiration in contemporary UK artists such as Loyle Carner, Tom Misch, and Alfa Mist, appreciating their talent and innovative approaches. As he continues to evolve as an artist, Rapture Boy is gaining attention for his unique sound and engaging live performances. If you're into contemporary music that pushes boundaries, he's definitely an artist to watch!
